The Chill of Victory

POST-QUALIFYING COOL OFF—Anna Willard, center, celebrates in the water jump with fellow-U.S. Olympic Track & Field Team members Lindsay Anderson and Jennifer Barringer, after the 3,000-meter steeplechase final at the Olympic trials in Eugene, Ore. Willard won the race, setting a new American record in the process. The three will compete in Beijing next month. (Photourun Photo)

Greenwood's Anna Willard Beijing bound

By ALISON ALOISIO

A running career that began on the back roads of Greenwood has reached the pinnacle of American steeplechase competition.

In the wee hours of July 4, Anna Willard set a new American record in the 3,000-meter steeplechase, earning herself a trip to the Beijing Olympics.

Willard, a 2002 Telstar graduate, won the finals of the Olympic trials in a time of 9:27.59, besting the previous record of 9:28.75. It was the best time ever run in the event on American soil.

Willard ran most of the race close behind several other runners. She took the lead in the final 600 meters, beating second-place Lindsey Anderson by more than three seconds.

Willard described the race for the media afterward:

"With 600 to go, I just felt so fantastic, incredible. My foot kept going to the side. I wanted to go. The fifth lap, mentally, is the hardest lap. The second to last water jump, I went early."

"I knew I was in 9:28 or better shape. I knew I was ready. When I heard 9:28 (over the PA), I thought, 'this feels pretty good.' I honestly didn't know how much of a gap I had. At this point, time is completely peripheral. It's 'make the team.'"

On how it feels to be competing on the first Olympic steeplechase team: "Amazing, fantastic. To be on the Olympic Team at all... I can't even comprehend."

This will be the first women's steeplechase in Olympic history.

"It's pretty cool to be a part of history," said Willard. "The Olympics is pretty cool alone. This is a pretty neat addition."

Finishing third was Jennifer Barringer.

The top three finishers will go to the Olympics.

The American women are expected to compete on Aug. 15.

John Applin was Willard's track coach in high school.

"[Anna] appears to be maturing into the physical strength required for a world-class runner," Applin said Tuesday. "She has always had the work ethic and the ability. It is just a matter of time and training."

The road to Beijing

Willard was a top distance runner at Telstar. Her training included running the roads of Greenwood, picking up cans and bottles along the way to recycle.

She won Class C high school state championships in the 800- and 1,600-meters.

Land Board OKs funds for Buck's Ledge and Middle Intervale Farm

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Land for Maine Future Board Tuesday allocated more than $900,000 to two Bethel area land conservation projects.

The allocations in themselves do not guarantee that the projects will be completed. Many steps, including appraisals, negotiations with the sellers and further fundraising remain, said Jim Mitchell, executive director of the Mahoosuc Land Trust, which put forward the two local proposals.

But the two allocations do represent major steps forward for the two projects.

The LMF Board approved allocating $251,000 to the Buck's Ledge Project in Woodstock and Greenwood, and $667,000 toward the purchase of an agricultural easement on the 201-acre Middle Intervale Farm in Bethel.

But conservation deals are still far from done.

Also approved for funding was an addition to the state's holdings in the Grafton Notch area, which will protect a key portion of the new Grafton Loop Trail.

That funding was approved as part of a $662,000 allocation for the expansion of the state's trails network.

In all, the LMF Board voted to give approval to 46 land-

Mason Street sidewalk Selectmen clear way for a state-funded engineering study

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Twice in recent weeks, supporters of a sidewalk along Mason and Chapman streets have managed to sidestep cracks that would have broken the effort's stride, perhaps even its back.

The idea of building such a sidewalk, which would connect Crescent Park School with an existing sidewalk along Church Street, originated more than two years ago in discussions of Bethel Area Trails (BAT), a subcommittee of the Mahoosuc Land Trust.

The committee pitched the idea to the town, and in a series of selectmen's meetings and at public hearings there appeared to be plenty of support for such a sidewalk.

To help pay for it, in late 2006 BAT submitted a grant proposal to the state's Safe Routes to School program.

And in May of the following year, the state responded with an offer to contribute $96,400 to the estimated $136,000 cost of such a project.

And at the annual Town Meeting the following month voters approved an article authorizing the selectmen to accept the grant.

That October the selectmen voted to authorize a letter committing the town to accepting the state funds and allocating $40,000 of town money to the project.

The board also appointed a seven-member Mason Street Committee to develop details of a sidewalk plan.

Grange Exhibition opens at Historical Society

By ALISON ALOISIO

To many of us "The Grange" is a vague notion, calling to mind little more perhaps than a staid old meeting hall. But for many decades The Grange was a powerful force in American culture, both as a focal point of rural life, and a catalyst for social change.

Few know for example, that the Grange was the first major organization to grant women equal rights.

They might also be surprised to learn that a Maine fore-runner of the national Grange originated right here in Bethel.

A new exhibition at the Bethel Historical Society "The Grange in Maine," describes the origins and functions of 19th-Century agricultural societies such as The Grange and — in Bethel — The Farmer's Club.

Background

The Grange, also known as the "Order of the Patrons of Husbandry," was founded in 1867 in Washington, D.C. by a group led by Oliver Hudson Kelley.

As described in the BHS exhibition, Kelley was a civil servant who traveled the South after the Civil War and was "struck by the devastation, and conceived of a society of

For Bud Bowden The Great Depression, World War II just parts of a long, happy life

By ALISON ALOISIO

Bud Bowden of Albany was born in 1918, the year World War I ended and the year the Boston Red Sox won their last World Series title for what would be 86 years.

Bowden would grow up to fight in another World War, and live to see the Sox win another Series.

Bud moves around now using a motorized cart, but his mind moves as easily as it did years ago.

Bud was born in Fairfield, but he and his family soon moved to Rumford, where he grew up.

His father was an electrician. The first radio in Rumford was in their home.

Other than that luxury, Bud was a typical teenager of the Depression.

"Everyone was in the same boat," he said.

Entertainment for youths like himself could be bought for $2 a winter at nearby Black Mountain.

A member of the Chisholm Ski Club, Bud went cross-country and alpine skiing, ski jumped and ice skated on a lighted rink.

"I enjoyed jumping more than anything else," he said.

A modest man, he won't talk much about his athletic accomplishments. But, said his daughter Judith, "My mother used to tell about what a good skier he was."

Bud also loved baseball, but never played in high school.

"When I was 16, I was 5-6 and 125 pounds," he said. "By the time I was 19, I had got all my growth. I was 6 feet, 180 pounds."

That better qualified him to play on one of the Rumford town teams, as a pitcher and outfielder. "Every section of town had a pick-up team," said Bud.

After graduating from Stephens High School in 1935, Bud worked for several years

ART FAIR THANKS

To the Editor:

The 19th annual Bethel Art Fair was a tremendous success on all accounts! We were blessed with a perfect-weather day and the visitors to the Bethel common all had huge smiles on their faces.

The success of an event of this nature comes as a result of an incredible amount of effort and cooperation. First of all, I would like to thank the 50 artists and fine craftspeople for spending a day of their busy lives with us. The shoppers enjoyed the wide variety of wares and admired the talent of these talented individuals. The support of our sponsors provided the resources to put the event on.

Many thanks to Coca Cola of Northern New England, The Bethel Inn Resort, TransCanada, the Good Food Store, the Maine Press, Northeast Bank, Oxford Networks, Down East Enterprises, Western Maine Health and the River View Resort. Their contributions made it possible for the crowd to enjoy Jim McLaughlin and Those Jazz Guys as well as the Punch and Judy Puppet Show.

The work required to plan for, organize and orchestrate the Art Fair is a treat, given the efforts of two great ladies, Heather Hale-Nivus and Rene McGrew, who co-chair the committee. The volunteers who stepped up to help at the fair also made it enjoyable!

Many thanks to: Dave Freiday, Gary Haines, Bill Tout, Richard Johnson, Read Dickinson, Lynn Saxton, Kevin Pennell, Rosemary Laban, Sylvia Clanton, Colleen Files, Ginny Walker, Sue Milton, Karen McElroy, Rosabelle Tiff, Sharon Haendel, Marcia Foster-Austin, Susan Herlihy, Julie Edes, Tim Carter, Cynthia Moran-Laux, Laurence Austin, Al Cressy, Donna Whipple, Barb Dion and Bruce Powell.

Additional thanks are extended to Gould Academy for the use of their tables, chairs, coffee cambrs and ice; the Good Food Store for the coffee and the Bethel Citizen for the wonderful full-page promotion ad.

The fireworks at dusk were enjoyed by a huge crowd. Many thanks to the following sponsors who stepped up to fund them: The Town of Bethel, The Bethel Inn Resort, Town of Woodstock, Town of Hanover, The Sudbury Inn, Law Offices of Gregory Files, PA, Brooks Bros., Inc., Stony Brook Recreation, Bethel Camp for the Arts, S.S. Milton, Sunday River Rentals, Good Food Store/BBQ Bob's, RE/MAX In The Mountains.

Next year's event is going to be a big day! The date is Saturday, July 4, and we will be celebrating our 20th Annual. The Art Fair Committee wanted to choose a local artist for our 20th anniversary poster, and we selected a beautiful piece created by Seneca Corriveau of Newry. Seneca is the granddaughter of Sue Wight, who was one of our original participating artists.

Thanks again to everyone who helped to make the 19th annual Bethel Art Fair a wonderful day.

Robin Zinchuk

Executive Director, Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

VOTE FOR DONNA MEISNER LIBBY

To the Editor:

Please vote Donna Meisner Libby for selectman of Andover. There are many good reasons for supporting Donna, not the least of which is she is a local candidate who was raised in Andover. She is a graduate of Andover High School and Burdett College.

Donna has had a career as a pension administrator and financial auditor for a Fortune 500 Insurance Company for almost 20 years. In this capacity, she has come to understand that account oversight and watching spending are tasks that need to be addressed with regular habit. She will make sure the tax dollars we vote are monitored for good budget process.

I've known Donna since she was a girl growing up in the Old Telephone Office building on Main Street. She, too, has seen Andover change over the years. Donna supports a simple approach — if it is taxpayer money, you better know where it is going.

We can all be certain that a vote for Donna is a vote for a candidate who wants to put the "small town politics" behind us and get back to business.

Currently, Donna is serving on the Wages and Benefits committee and is spending a great deal of her time now researching and reading the past audits for the town of Andover. Donna is doing this work in order to better understand the financial process of taxpayer dollars. She is fair and honest and will certainly work hard for all of us.

INFORMATIONAL MEETING ON BUCK'S LEDGE

To the Editor:

The long-awaited decision on money from the Land for Maine's Future was this week, Tuesday. The Land for Maine's Future Board allocated $251,000 toward the purchase of the Buck's Ledge property, including Lapham Ledge and Moody Mountain.

I'd like to invite everyone to an informational meeting Friday night, July 11, at 7 p.m. at the Woodstock Town Office. We will bring all of you up to date on the progress of purchasing this scenic ledge and 644 acres. The goal is conservation and traditional use of the land.

We won't have the complete figures for the entire project. But we'll share as much information as we have.

If you can't make this meeting, we will gladly share the news as we pass on the street, in the newspapers, and via e-mail.

Please don't hesitate to ask any questions of either Cathy Newell or me. Thank you all for your support so far.

STICKNEY FOR SELECTMAN

To the Editor:

I am running for the position of selectman in Andover because I feel the town is at a point where it desperately needs some positive direction. If elected, I believe I can provide that direction.

I have been a part-time resident of Andover for 18 years; full-time for almost six. I am the owner and creator of Grammy's Kitchen, a new and successful bakery, ice cream and gift shop in Andover village. My husband, Lance, and son, Adam, own Andover Masonry, Inc. a construction company active in town for four years. I am a certified paralegal, a Registered Maine Guide, and a wildlife artist. My past experience has been mostly in marketing, advertising and newspaper reporting; I am a limited government advocate, and have been a government and wasteful spending taxpayer watchdog my entire life.

I believe that government needs to earn the respect of its citizens, not foster their resentment. This is done through: Accessibility, accountability, consistency, limited interference, positive direction through positive citizen involvement, and following through with actions, not just talk.

If elected, some of my goals would be to:

1. Stop the squabbling: Andover needs to look at the big picture and stop the petty squabbling. I would identify any major points of contention and have meetings between the aggrieved parties to resolve differences. I would recommend an end to the lunch counter feeding frenzies; people need to bring their complaints to the meetings where those concerned have a chance to address them and answer questions with the correct information, not the inaccurate gossip.

It is counterproductive to practically come to blows over the location of a ball field light post or any other small issue. It is counterproductive to bring town officials to court, squandering taxpayer money on lawyers. Courts, where only the lawyers win, should not be our first resort. We need to act like adults and discuss and resolve our issues; agree to disagree if necessary.

2. Offer short weekly public forums at the beginning of each selectmen's meeting with a two-minute limit per person. And use the information acquired as food for thought, not necessarily responding immediately or encouraging response, but to think about and take into consideration for subsequent discussion. This will diffuse any behind-the-scenes resentment festering within unhappy citizens and groups, and promote more orderly meetings. Other items to be discussed need to be on agenda. Agendas for all boards and committees need to be posted at least 24 hours in advance. Discussion should be limited to agenda items. Interested citizens should join committees, contribute their opinions, and accept the committees' final decisions. This should promote orderly meetings and limit the disruption of town business.

3. Review the Comprehensive Plan: Form a committee appointed by selectmen, giving preference to long-term citizens, to review the comprehensive town plan which is outdated; revise and add details and goals for each department and subcommittee to work toward; input from public forums and town employees is essential. Form a Capital Budgeting Committee to look at department wish lists (outside of basic operating budget) and make recommendations to selectmen.

4. Review our town ordinances: Revise as needed with input from public forums; have subcommittees make recommendations; bring to town meeting vote. Have a Town Ordinance booklet made available for public purchase; consistently enforce our the ordinances with no waivers unless for good, well-documented reasons.

In summary, I would ask you to support my candidacy. The best candidate is a well-informed candidate; one who knows how to access the proper resources available, without squandering taxpayer dollars. I think I can help bring citizens to the table to discuss the important issues that will affect Andover's future, and to get Andover on a positive track for years to come.

Brenda Stickney
Andover

Sidewalk

But even at that point questions about the plan were being raised.

Selectman Dennis Doyon complained about the possible "taking" of private land (in the town right of way) for construction of the sidewalk and about the potential long-term cost of maintaining a sidewalk.

He also pointed to the lack of a coherent planning process.

"It's not like [the sidewalk's] a horrible plan," he said, "but it's more like, 'Let's take the money and then figure out what we're going to do with it.'"

Fellow Selectman Jack Cross agreed, and the two voted against authorizing the letter.

They were outvoted, however, by selectmen Don Bennett, Bob Everett and Stan Howe.

Fast forward to June 23 of this year, and a discussion on whether to agree to allow some of the state funding to be put toward a professional engineering study for a sidewalk.

Identical votes, identical outcome. And not unfamiliar arguments.

Doyon complained again about the lack of a detailed plan.

"There hasn't been any sort of consensus," he said. "We ended up with a committee [the Mason Street Committee] that couldn't come up with a plan on Mason Street, couldn't come up with a plan for Chapman Street, and now they're saying, 'Let's spend money so somebody else can present ideas for us to pick.'"

And he and Cross both complained about the future costs (especially for snow removal) the town would incur if the new sidewalk were built.

They also worried that going ahead with the engineering study would commit the town to building the sidewalk.

But Town Manager Scott Cole said that was not the case, and he had explicit assurance from the state coordinator that even if the study were completed, the town could still opt out of the project, at no penalty.

Don Bennett agreed. Replying to Doyon, Bennett said: "The state is willing to do the engineering and come up with something that will define a little more clearly what the options are, and at that point and if we feel as you do, Dennis, we can still pull the plug."

Doyon, however, preferred to pull the plug immediately and made a motion to do so.

Cross seconded the motion, but again the pair was outvoted.

That cleared the plan to move to the town Budget Committee last week.

On this occasion, members of the Mason Street Committee turned out to make the case for the sidewalk.

"At some point in this town there's going to be a sidewalk on that street, whether it's five years, 10 years or 20 years from now," said Scott Gould. "Why not let the state go ahead and at least pay an engineer to do all the design work, then be all ready to go ahead when and if it is time."

And Heidi Godonski pointed to the absurdity of the present situation, in which SAD44 policy prohibits CPS pupils from walking to school, in part because of the lack of a sidewalk on which they could safely do so.

"Right now my kindergarten has to stand out in front of our house — and we live right behind Crescent Park School and he could walk through the woods" she said, "but instead he gets on the bus and goes to Telstar and then gets on the bus and comes back to Crescent Park. That's ridiculous."

(The School District's policies on such matters are currently under review, in large part because of rising fuel prices.)

The Budget Committee ultimately voted 5-2 to recommend the town go ahead with the engineering study, but only on the condition that the state pay all of that cost, and the town reserve the right to pull out of the project if it later chooses.

The selectmen then voted 3-1 (Everett was absent) to authorize the study.

Doyon was the lone holdout.

Cross in this case voted with the majority, but, he said, "only for the engineering."

The next step in the process, Cole said, will be for the town to receive written authorization from MDOT to hire an engineer, as well as written assurance that going ahead with the engineering work will not commit the town to the full project.

Buck's Ledge update

On Friday night, July 11, at 7 p.m. there will be an informational meeting on the Buck's Ledge project at the Woodstock Town Office.

Anyone interested in learning more about the project is encouraged to attend.

Briefly

Andover Town Meeting format

ANDOVER—A special Town Meeting will take place July 17 at the Town Hall to fill the positions of two selectmen who resigned. A moderator will be chosen at 3 p.m., but voting will be by secret ballot from 4 to 8 p.m. The candidates are Trudy Akers, Fred Detheridge, Donna Libby, Brenda Stickney, Mark Thurston and Danny Wells. The positions to be filled include a 20-month term of Hope Peterson and an eight-month term of chairman Jeff Rainey. Absentee ballots are available at the Town Office.

Voters approve use of $186,000

NEWRY—A small turnout of voters Monday approved $186,000 in town money for several projects. Residents OK'd taking $90,000 from the Surplus Account for erosion control in the Sunday River Watershed. The funds will be reimbursed by FEMA through a grant awarded to Newry last year. Work is expected to start later this month. Another $90,000, from the Capital Improvement Account, was approved to repair the Sunday River Road near Nordic Knoll. Also approved was $6,000 from the same account for lighting improvements at the Town Office.

Chip truck/van crash on Route 2

HANOVER—A Rumford man was seriously injured Tuesday morning when his westbound minivan apparently crossed the centerline on Route 2 and struck a loaded chip truck. Joshua Wheeler, 30, suffered a fractured leg and arm and cuts to the head. He was LifeFlighted to Central Maine Medical Center in Lewiston. The driver of the chip truck, 48, of Quebec was taken to Rumford Hospital, where he was treated and released. His truck went off the road and rolled onto its side. Fuel and oil was spilled in the crash, and Route 2 was closed for a large part of the day while the spill was cleaned up and the crash was reconstructed. Newry firefighters directed the detouring traffic.

Gem festival this weekend

BETHEL—The 47th annual Western Maine Gem, Mineral, and Jewelry Festival will be held at Telstar High School on Saturday, July 12, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Sunday, July 13, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Admission is $2 for adults (children under 12 free). Attendees can see and purchase minerals, gems and jewelry from local mines to mines from all over the world. Admission also qualifies ticket holders for hourly door prizes and a chance to win the Grand Door Prize, a sparkling pink tourmaline pendant set in gold with a gold chain. And festival goers can bid for minerals at the silent auction, watch and try a gold panning demonstration and even buy lunch.

Canoe trek due here

BETHEL—The 13th annual Androscoggin River Source to the Sea Canoe Trek will come through the Bethel area July 11-13. On Friday the trek will float 9.5 miles from Shelburne, N.H. to Gilead; Saturday, Gilead to Bethel (10 mi.); and Sunday, Bethel to Hanover (10.5 mi.). For more information and registration go to www.androscogginriver.org.

Unemployment benefits extended

AUGUSTA—The Maine Department of Labor has begun processing claims for emergency extended unemployment benefits for Maine workers. State Labor Commissioner Laura Fortman recently signed an agreement with the U.S. Department of Labor, which will allow Maine to provide an additional 13 weeks of unemployment benefits for workers who have lost their jobs through no fault of their own. Close to 30,000 Maine workers were identified by the Maine Department of Labor as potentially eligible for the benefit and the agency mailed program applications to those individuals last week. "The simplest and quickest way for workers to file for benefits is to complete an application form and mail it back to the Maine Department of Labor," Fortman said. "Thousands of Mainers have received applications by mail, and copies of the form can also be downloaded from the Maine Department of Labor website at www.file4ui.com. Unemployed workers may qualify for the extension if they are currently unemployed and have exhausted regular unemployment benefits on a benefit year that ended on or after May 1, 2007 and have no rights to any benefits under any other unemployment program. They also must meet certain earnings requirements over the past 15 to 18 months. Recipients need to file a weekly claim each week in order to remain eligible. Applications for extended unemployment can be taken through the week ending March 28, 2009 for workers who may exhaust their benefits in the coming months and who otherwise meet program eligibility rules. Workers may also file claims for emergency extended unemployment benefits by calling the Unemployment Claims Center system toll free at 1-800-593-7660 or TTY: 1-888-457-8884. The claims center is open Monday through Friday 8:00 a.m. to 5 p.m. Unlike regular unemployment claims, the initial claim for extended unemployment benefits cannot be filed over the Internet. Once an emergency extended unemployment claim has been set up, weekly benefit claims can be filed online (www.File4UI.com), by telephone using the automated voice interactive system at the number above or by mail.

Grange

farmers that would bind up the Nation's wounds by promoting fraternal and brotherly love."

In addition, the founders felt that with a shift in the country's economic and political power from rural areas to the cities, the Grange would create a sense of stability.

"An agricultural fraternal order with pageantry, rituals, passwords and secrecy common to other fraternal societies of the mid- to late-19th century, the Grange provided a broadening of rural experience, with males and females 14 years of age and older sharing equally in the work of the Order. As well, the strong social and educational aspects of Grange programs improved the lot of the nation's rural farm population."

Kelley's niece, Caroline A. Hall, also persuaded the founders to give women equal rights in the organization.

Farmer's Club in Bethel
Fifteen years before the establishment of the national Grange, Dr. Nathaniel Tuckerman True, the principal of Gould Academy and the editor of Bethel's first newspaper, was instrumental in organizing Maine's first Farmer's Club.

As described in the Bethel Courier newspaper in 1859, "At Bethel, the Farmer's Club was a social as well as educational organization, meeting in the winter on a bi-monthly schedule. Topics ranging from

The best Breed of Milch Cows, to whether corn or potatoes were the more profitable crop were discussed by the men, while the women had their social gathering."

The club also sponsored annual fairs.

After three decades of popularity, the Farmer's Clubs in Maine gave way to the Grange, which served similar purposes but also had a state and national influence.

The Maine State Grange was established in 1874. Over the next 50 years, it numbered approximately 50,000 members in 400 locations.

The Maine Grange supported legislative action on such issues as Prohibition, Rural Free Delivery, the establishment of the Farm Bureau and the Extension Service.

Membership peaked in the 1950s at 62,000, then declined to about 10 percent of that during the latter half of the century.

Local Granges
There are three Granges still active in the Bethel area: Franklin Grange of Bryant Pond, Alder River Grange of East Bethel and Pleasant Valley Grange of West Bethel.

Each has a current membership of around three dozen, said Stan Howe, Ph.D., executive director of BHS.

Howe is a member of the Alder River Grange.

"The Granges were organized on neighborhoods," he said. "Many people's horizons weren't much bigger than the neighborhood."

For a time, some local Granges were controlled by families.

"The halls were community centers and still are," said Howe.

They are often used for wedding receptions and other gatherings.

Many of today's Grange members come from a farming heritage, which they wish to preserve. But the role of the Grange, while still social, has evolved to a community-service focus, Howe said.

John Applin is a member of the Pleasant Valley Grange, which was established in 1875 with 40 charter members.

He described his organization's modern activities:

"We display at the Oxford and Fryeburg fairs, maintain flowers at the West Bethel Post Office, host Senior Citizens twice a year, support the Hope Association for Developmentally Disabled, Good-Will Hinckley School, Opportunity Farm, Androscoggin Home Care and Hospice, and other non-profit organizations," he said.

"At Christmas we support both the Bethel Rotary Christmas for Children and Nina Wheeler's Christmas for Families."

The BHS exhibition is located in the Moses Mason House, and will run through May of 2010.

The exhibit was compiled by Randy Bennett and Danna Brown Nickerson.

Bud Bowden

at the First National Store. "I'd sneak out of work at 5 to be ready to play [baseball] at 6," he said.

He also worked at the paper mill and at a machine shop.

Bud met his wife-to-be, Florine Bean, at a party in Bethel in 1937. She was born in the house across the street from where he lives now.

"We were both the fifth child out of a family of six," he said.

They married in 1941. After living a short time in Sabattus, where Bud worked in a woolen mill, they returned to Rumford. He worked in the same businesses he had before.

Then came World War II. Bud joined the Navy in 1942. "I left on my son's first birthday," he said.

He did his basic training in Newport, R.I.

"I had a pretty good test score, so they talked me into training in aviation machine shop," he said.

He tried it, but didn't like it. So he switched to flight school and trained instead as a gunner and mechanic.

He reported for active duty on Jan. 9, 1943.

Bud was sent to the Pacific as a crewman on a PB4Y2, a four-engine bomber.

He was stationed for a time at the Naval Air Station on Oahu, Hawaii, but then moved on to the front.

His plane was a patrol bomber that targeted Japanese shipping. The plane was based successively on several islands, including Iwo Jima and Tinian.

"We moved up to them as soon as they were secure," Bud said. "We'd often go in at night."

In the final three months of the war, the bomber patrolled along the coast of Japan.

Bud was discharged in March of 1946.

"In three years and three months in the Navy, I was on a ship at sea for 48 hours," he said.

College and career

After the war, Bud and his family moved to Lowell, Mass.

There, financed by the GI Bill, he earned a four-year degree in wool manufacturing at Lowell Textile College.

After graduating in 1950, Bud worked as a manager at a succession of textile mills in Worcester, Mass. and Cumberland and Lincoln, R.I. He eventually became a partner in a Rhode Island mill.

"It's nice to have your own business. You can work all the hours you want to," he joked.

But he found time to take up a new sport — golf. It was a bit of a struggle at first, as his friends tried to teach him.

"My baseball swing didn't work too well," he said.

Bud, Florine and their three children made regular visits to Maine to visit their families. They snowmobiled in the winters, and in the summer swam in Songo Pond or at Sandy Point, where Bud's mother lived.

Judith remembers that Bud found time to talk to his kids and stay in touch with what they were doing and thinking.

"He was a great dad," she said.

He retired in 1982, and the next year he and Florine built a log home on Hunt's Corner Road in Albany.

That gave him more time to concentrate on golf. He and some friends made a circuit of courses in Maine and other New England states.

He sharpened his golf skills enough to sink two holes-in-one during the 1980s.

He never saw either of them. On the first, "I was picking up my tee," he said.

The same thing happened the second time around. "My partners started cheering," he said.

In the early 1990s Bud gained a new friend when his granddaughter started going with Glenn Gross.

Glenn was born June 21, 1968 — Bud's 50th birthday.

Glenn married into the family in 1993, and over time the two men, separated by 50 years, developed more and more in common.

Glenn, who grew up in Rhode Island, shares Bud's love of sports. The younger man and his family live in Indiana, where he coaches several youth sports.

Glenn also began his working life in a mill, and has gone on to own his own flooring business.

"[Bud] talked to me about starting my own business," said Glenn, before he established it.

"They're two peas in a pod," said Judith, Glenn's mother-in-law.

Almost.

Although the two share a love for the Red Sox and rejoiced when they finally won the World Series in 2004, there is a rift in football.

Bud is a New England Patriots fan, while Glenn has adopted the Indianapolis Colts.

Milestone birthdays

The two men celebrate their birthdays jointly when they can, and last Saturday they celebrated two big ones.

Dozens of family and friends gathered to mark Bud's 90th and Glenn's 40th.

For Glenn, his relationship with Bud fills a void.

"My grandparents died when I was young," said Glenn. "He's been a grandfather to me."

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

I spent this past weekend at war with the weeds that are dominating my beautiful flower gardens — the weeds are winning the war.

I really, really, really HATE weeding. It's a mind-numbing, backbreaking, knee-cramping job. Some misguided philosopher once said that work well done never needs doing over. I can guarantee you that Mr. Philosopher never did housework or weeded a garden.

The abundance of rain this summer has created the perfect growing conditions for weeds of all kinds. They thrive in the moist soil and the gardener can't get out in the rain to pull them. They seem to know this and take advantage of it. I am convinced that weeds, especially crabgrass grows at least 10 times faster than the average flower.

I think the weeds are having a worse effect on me than they are on my flower beds. They make me feel guilty every time I pass my aster garden on my way to the car. It's almost as if they're mocking me.

Their weedy little voices penetrate my brain. "Ha, ha, you're on your way to work, you can't touch us now in your nice clean clothes." And later in the day it's "Ha, ha, you can't touch us now because you have to cook a meal and do laundry."

By the time Saturday morning arrived sunny and dry, I was fed up with the laughing, noxious growths and decided to spend the day launching an all-out attack in my "garden of weeden."

Some people believe in talking to their plants and I can understand that because I firmly believe in swearing at the weeds. After an hour or so of digging, pulling and cursing, I was quite amazed at how little progress I had made and how much my language skills had disintegrated.

I even started calling the weeds by name. Not their botanical names, which I don't know, but by the names of any person that I could think of who has ever caused me a moment's grief. Old classmates I didn't get along with — out! Ex-boyfriends of days gone by — out! Past bosses who had ever given me a hard time at work and even my husband for every disagreement we've ever had. Out they came and unceremoniously dumped on the weed heap.

I really, really, really HATE weeding.

There are those who feel that gardening is good therapy, and I can testify to the fact that weeding is definitely a good way of working out any aggressions you may have been suppressing.

I did reserve some sensitivity for the flowers that I inadvertently pulled out and promptly made an apology to, but for the weeds I held no restraints whatsoever.

Ralph Waldo Emerson said a weed is a plant whose virtues have not yet been discovered. I think he was wrong. The virtue of weeds that I discovered was a productive way to transfer any anger or hostility that one may have smoldering within.

As evening rolled around I was a very calm and serene individual. I didn't protest or say a single negative word throughout the evening even while Henry channel surfed the night away. Of course, I was close to comatose from a full day of weeding in the hot sun, but be that as it may, I was feeling no sense of aggression.

My aggression had been fully depleted on the crabgrass. What in heck was Mother Nature thinking when she came up with crabgrass? Was that a PMS day when she said, "I'm going to create a completely worthless, ugly plant that will grow under any conditions within nanoseconds."

I swear that I completely cleaned out an area of crabgrass growth only to see it growing again in the very same spot before I had even had the opportunity to discard its dead cousins.

When it comes to crabgrass I have to agree with columnist Dave Barry who once wrote, "Crabgrass can grow on bowling balls in airless rooms and there is no known way to kill it that doesn't involve nuclear weapons."

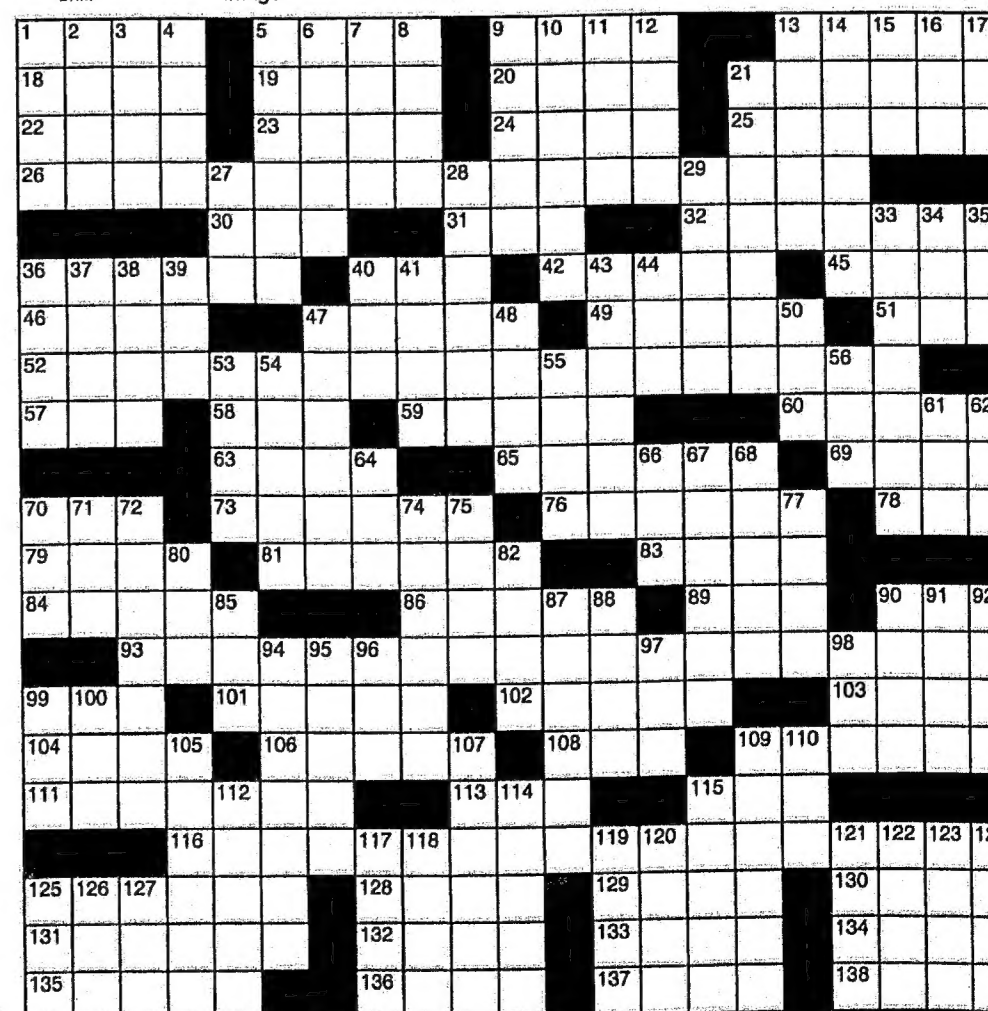

That also applies to bamboo of which my backyard has been taken over with. It's not a true bamboo, but that is what we call it in Maine when we aren't calling it something unprintable.

Once I found a gardening chat room on the Internet, and I asked if anyone knew how to get rid of bamboo. One answer was to call in the National Guard and request an air strike. Someone else suggested a good dose of Agent Orange. My favorite suggestion was just one word, "MOVE." I of course didn't and I still have the bamboo.

I guess I can take some comfort in knowing that weeds are the nemesis of everyone with a garden. Whether it's flowers or vegetables, we all work hard at trying to nurture the plants and rid the weeds in hopes of a bountiful harvest or aesthetic beauty.

The way I see it this war of the weeds will go on all summer and the best I can hope for is to keep one step ahead of the crabgrass and just "weed em and reap. Sorry, I couldn't resist.

Bethel

by Donald G. Bennett

July is here all right — with lots going on.

On Wednesday night our section of Mayville was hit with about three thunderstorms that dropped 5-1/4 inches of rain. But as soon as that collection of blockbusters passed we've had beautiful summer weather.

On the 4th of July, some of Olympia's substance but not her image remained. Jim Sysko's prediction of the snow queen lasting until the Fourth was right.

Mini's Galore

Minis coming to last week's Mini Meet East 2008 took over Route 2 and the roads between Bethel and the Jordan Grand Hotel where the club members rallied for their summer meeting. Minis were all over Main Street in Bethel. The two that caught my eye were: 1) a blue car from Ontario had "HER MINI" plates but the "HIS" was driving it (with her permission). 2) another special Mini was a yellow one with "Actual Size" on a rear window sticker; it was parked behind Ruthie's and was from New Brunswick.

Remembering the Grange

At the Bethel Historical Society, a summer-long exhibit about the Grange in Maine was opened on July 1. It is housed in the Moses Mason house and will be open Tuesdays through Sundays from 1 to 4 p.m. If you want to see where Bethel's Grange Hall once stood, it has an easy-to-find guidepost. Kenneth's Realty has a "Lots for Sale" sign posted near the corner of Spring and Main streets. The first vacant lot on the corner once held Brown's Variety Store and the second lot, just a little further down Spring was the location of the hall of many uses — called Pattee's Hall, Bethel Grange Hall and, after it became an apartment building, it was dubbed "The Beehive."

Inside the Moses Mason exhibit room is a display that covers all the features of the Maine Grange's activities. The Grange did many things of lasting value for farm families. It was also known as the Patrons of Husbandry. Grange halls were the social meeting places for thousands of rural farm and non-farm families. My grandparents, Ed and Minnie Bennett, were very active in the Grange, although it mystified me listening to their talking about going to different Grange meetings and their excitement over a Pomona Grange. In fact they probably met each other at a Grange gathering in Errol.

Bethel voters hated to spend money on a town building so Pattee's Hall provided a hall for Town Meetings for many years (and the selectmen had to find office space to rent where they could). About 1948, Leslie Davis, a prominent Bethel mill owner and lumberman, bought the former Grange Hall, unused for Grange meetings since 1940, and converted it into six apartments. Bob and Ginny Keniston were the first to move into one of the new apartments. They lived on the second floor, which was originally the dance floor while they were building their house on Chapman Street.

Chapman Street - Songo Pond News
The Keniston camp at Songo Pond in Albany came alive over the 4th of July weekend in recognition of the 50th anniversary of the camp's existence. It was built by Stan Davis, son of Earl and Elsie Davis of Bethel, later transferred to Bob and Ginny Davis Keniston with a promise that it be retained forever for grandchildren and forthcoming descendants to enjoy.

Last Friday, Saturday and Sunday found the surrounding woods full of tents and camping trailers. The pond was usually full of swimmers, the sailboat was busy, the outboard motor got some exercise and shouts of joy filled the air from a multitude of youngsters. One interesting sight was the 40 pounds of beef on a spit over the outdoor fireplace. From that came the main course of Saturday's dinner — "Delicious" to say the least.

After three perfect days and a 57-person attendance things had to come to a halt and silence returned.

Mahoosuc Map and Tourmaline Media

The clearly presented, very attractive design and artwork that went into the huge Mahoosuc Region map introduced two weeks ago came from the pen and eye of Connie St. Pierre's art and web design shop named Tourmaline Media. The map is back in the shop for final corrections now that it has been circulated for comment and more proofreading. Although it is a poster-size map, the Mahoosuc Initiative will be distributing the maps free by the thousands throughout this area. Connie also designs a range of promotional materials for print distribution. She has recently taken up Web hosting and e-mail accounts — reliable and locally produced.

"Barker Place" Exploring on the 4th of July

While the glorious Fourth brought us glorious weather, Grandson Ashton and I went exploring into a non-skiing area of Barker Mountain in search of an old Barker resident's cellar hole. Legend and history says that Newry was first settled by three Barker brothers from Methuen, Mass. They came in 1780 and 1781; at least one of the brothers and family had the misfortune of being raided and robbed by a six-man band of Indians on their way to do further mischief to Bethel settlers living along the Androscoggin. (The Bethel Barkers came from a different Barker family.)

Finding the old cellar hole was relatively simple. By now it looks to be only three or four feet deep and the walls are made of uncut stones. What seems to be a well is found near a corner of the cellar. If all the trees were cleared on this part of the mountain slope, it could probably have been seen from the driveway to the Summit Hotel. As for the derivation of the name Barker Mountain — it could be safely said that the name came from the collective achievements of all the Barker brothers, not just one Barker. The Barker living in this mountainside home in 1850 was not directly related to the band of three founding brothers. He may have been Capt. Joseph S. Barker, but in 1850 he was 63 years old and called himself a farmer.

Saturday Art Shows - On and Off Broadway - Your choices

The Broadway art fair or maybe better called an arts and crafts bazaar on the Bethel Common versus the quieter off Broadway exhibition at Janet Willie's place on High Street certainly offered visitors a choice of weekend events to see. Around noon-time I counted about 55 tent booths of all types and guesstimating the crowd at 12 to 15 per booth there were 700 to 1,000 people. The scene on the

SOMEONE TO LOOK UP TO—Youngsters watch a stilt walker at Saturday's Bethel Art Fair. Good weather helped produce a strong turnout for the event.

Common resembled the midway of a large country fair. Call it an art fair if you wish. I grew up accustomed to a more traditional type of art market display. It is pleasing to see so many people working their way along the sidewalks and crossing streets to get into the Common, but the art show if you stay with a more conservative definition was at 18 High Street sponsored by Janet Willie.

Marvin Ouwinga had an excellent painting on display titled "Height of Land" which he had explained on a panel next to the painting that comes from enjoying the entire creative process. This painting captured the feel, the sensation that I believe most viewers would get when looking over this piece of terrain just north of us. There were other pieces of work on display that said to me — the artist enjoyed his or her effort and it was not just an attempt to make money by selling a tourist image to a visitor.

That said, both shows were well worth visiting. What I will call the "McLaughlin Four" gave the crowd on the Common the finest kind of music. Besides being so professional and accomplished, they had an audio system to match the occasion. Jim McLaughlin should get a big round of applause for their contribution to the Bethel's 19th annual art show.

Alarm in Sudbury, Mass.

Although the umbilical cord was broken centuries ago, Bethel still has historical connections to Sudbury since the first land grants for property here were awarded to Sudbury residents as pay for military service. News from Sudbury might be of interest to some in Bethel. With the trend of the day being bike and walking trails, prospects of this happening in Sudbury has gotten some residents up in arms, according to a Boston Globe article this week. Turning an old rail line into a bike path is the tipping point. "Opponents say the path would draw hundreds of thousands of bicyclists — with their noise and other disruptions into what is now a pristine landscape. Hordes of bikers, walkers, and rollerbladers would scare away wildlife, they say, and invite crime from trespassing to vandalism and assault." Sudbury is described as remaining a holdout on the bike trail issue — a wealthy hamlet of stately Colonials and rolling farmland where change comes slowly.

West Bethel

by Lorrie Hoeh

What a week! We have had a multiplicity of musical moments, a plethora of parties, and a festival of foods. It started on Wednesday, July 2, with an awesome piano recital at Gould Academy where we heard a beautiful program played by Dimitar Dimitrov of Sofia, Bulgaria; then on Thursday evening, a recital by the teacher, Dr. Tamara Poddubnaya, at this 2nd International Piano Festival called "Music without Borders," followed on Friday afternoon by the Historical Society's annual July picnic with music by the brass quintet here for the 16th time, and finally on Friday evening another piano recital where we heard six of Dr. Poddubnaya's students playing.

The Piano Festival continues this week and next, each Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday evening at 8 in the McLaughlin Center, through July 18. Do your best to attend at least one, and preferably more, of these free concerts. It is well worth the effort to be there.

Last Tuesday, July 1, I had a birthday, and Mike and I celebrated with boiled lobsters, and a little white wine, combining both "party" and food. On Saturday, July 5, our next-door neighbors, Keith and Donna Giles, hosted a celebration of their marriage, which actually took place last October. The weather cooperated, and the potluck picnic was another combination of party and food, with a good time and satisfied appetite for all. That evening we joined our Boston friends, the Thompsons, at their Flat Road vacation home for a cookout and visit. Their son, Graham, just graduated from Boston Latin High School and will be attending Carnegie Mellon University.

On the way to last Wednesday's concert we saw the most amazing rainbow on Grover Hill Road. It was a full arc, and there was actually a second, fainter rainbow as well. I think we all revert to childhood upon seeing this lovely natural phenomenon. Meanwhile, I found a clump of sweet william blooming next to the woodpile — no idea where it came from! Along the forest road the daisies are in bloom, and the sweet fern is giving off its pungent fragrance. A feast for the eyes is the new growth on balsam and hemlock branches, providing a bright contrast to the more subdued green of last year's needles.

In talking to Jane Hosterman, I learned that she recently underwent eye surgery to correct a glaucoma-related problem. She's doing fine now.

The Bethel Historical Society recently opened a new exhibit on the Maine Grange. My sources tell me that it is well worth seeing. The Grange has a long and distinguished history in this state. Speaking of Grange, don't forget the Pleasant Valley Grange's flea market this Friday and Saturday and every weekend this summer.

One of our West Bethel neighbors has joined the ranks of world travelers. Freda Davis recently returned from a marvelous trip to Italy with Norma Salway and Freda's niece, Gabrielle. They were met in Rome by former classmate, Nancy Brown Vargiu (whose parents owned Brown's Variety), who acted as their very able tour guide and translator.

After getting through their jet lag, the ladies visited the Spanish Steps, Trevi Fountain, the Coliseum, the Roman Forum, and other sights and scenes in Rome. Freda was awestruck by the antiquity, art, and architecture all around. She allows that seeing pictures and being there are altogether different.

On Day 3 they took a train to Venice and then the boat bus to tour the city. They also walked around a bit, visiting St. Mark's Square, museums, restaurants, and shops. After that it was on to Florence and Pisa, from where they flew to Sardinia, where Nancy owns an inn. Each woman had her own room in the inn. They spent a fascinating four or five days there, visiting a cork factory, among other things.

Finally the travelers returned to Rome by boat. Before bidding "Arrivederci, Roma," they took in the Vatican and the Sistine Chapel. Once again, being there beats photos hands down. Freda says she kept a log and took lots of pictures, so we'll have to persuade her to have a showing sometime soon. Welcome back!

I had a couple of pleasant surprises in my e-mail this week. First there was a note from Scott Thayer, Verna Thayer's grandson in Chicago, telling me he reads my column and his Uncle Richard's column online each week and enjoys both. He has wonderful memories of Maine and comes to visit every year. This year is no exception, with Verna due to celebrate her 90th birthday on Aug. 25. That is definitely worth coming home for. We hope to meet him while he's here.

On the same day, another e-mail came from a gentleman in St. Augustine, Fla., who was born in Eastport 81 years ago and grew up in Portland. He, too, reads Maine Newspapers online, including The Bethel Citizen and my column. He thanked me for activating his nostalgia for his native state. And I thank both these gentlemen for taking the time to contact me. Made my day!

Enjoy the summer weather while it lasts. Do get in touch with your news and thoughts. 836-3011; dhoe@megalink.net

East Bethel

by Nancy Mercer

Alder River Grange will meet on July 11 at the hall, with a 6:30 p.m. potluck supper and the meeting at 7:30 p.m.

On July 19 Alder River Grange will be at Mollycokett Day uptown to sell smoothies.

Alder River Grange will have a public supper on July 26. The menu will be oven fried chicken, potato salad, coleslaw, tossed garden salad, with blueberry cake for dessert. The supper will be 5 p.m. and adults are $7 and under 13 are $3.

We have an Avon lady in the neighborhood, Mona Coolidge. Her phone number is 824-7798.

Nancy Bailey of Connecticut, Betty Nordahl of Aurora, Calif., and Bill Nordahl of New Jersey visited Jack and Lucy Nordahl for a week, returning home on July 5.

Pual and Charlotte Kimball joined Clare Hamlin at Keoka Lake in Waterford for the 4th of July.

Paul Kimball had surgery on one of his rotator cuffs recently. He is doing well.

Bob and Barbara Remington of Florida visited Arlene Harrington on July 2 and 3.

Barbara Honkala celebrated a birthday on July 9 along with my brother Peter Haines. I understand the "muggies" are coming back the end of the week.

God Bless the Troops.

Gilead

by Lin Chapman

The month of July is flying by quite fast. The rain has let up for a few days, but the nights are still cool enough for good sleeping weather even though a blanket might be needed. When I think of July, I think of air conditioners and fans to cool things off.

My brother, Steve McLain, had some help from his son, Brad, this past weekend. They got some lawn-mowing, weed whacking and gardening done. The tomatoes are coming along and the cucumber plants are growing. Can't wait to make some more of those great old-fashioned mustard sour pickles.

Steve and Lise McLain attended a reception at the Jordan Grand in Newry for Lee and Jennifer Norris. Jennifer's mother, Aline Dupont, hosted the event. Also, attending was Gerard Dupont, who is Lise and Aline's father. Steve and Lise picked him up and he went to the event with them.

Hugh and I went to hear the Portland Brass Quintet at the Bethel Historical Society on July 4. We have always wanted to get to this event and finally had the chance. When we got there, Norm Buttrick and Cathy McGuire had already picked out a great spot in the shade. The weather was great and the music was wonderful.

We saw Hi and Mary Lou Berry while we were there. We also ran into Jarrod Crockett, who is the son of Aline Dupont and the nephew of Steve and Lise McLain. He was helping out before he had to rush off to the reception at the Jordan Grand for Lee and Jennifer.

Last Saturday, we attended the Art Fair on the Common. We had a great time visiting with some people we had not seen recently. Norm Buttrick and Cathy McGuire were also there enjoying the food and music. We had lunch at the booth that the Bethel Fire Department had set up. From there, we went to the 4th Annual Shy, Novice and Closeted Art Show at Janet Willie's. There were a lot of great things there from photographs, original paintings, jewelry and other forms of art objects. We especially wanted to check out Gilead's own Alice Elizabeth Strait's exhibit. Great job and beautiful photos!

On Sunday, Hugh and I headed for Gorham, N.H., to put out flyers for the Oxford County Mineral and Gem Association's Gem Show this coming weekend, July 12 and 13. This is one of the big events during the summer in Bethel. It will be held at Telstar from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday.

We stopped at a place to drop off the flyers and thought that we must have traveled a lot further than we intended or made a wrong turn somewhere and ended up in Washington state! To our surprise, there was Dewaine and Sarah Craig. We spent a little time catching up. They were here visiting their daughter and family of Parsonsfield. Rex and Beth (Craig) Wheeler just had a baby girl in June. It was so great to see them. They still read the Bethel Citizen, so hope they had a great visit in Texas and a safe trip back home.

Comprehensive Planning Committee

The July meeting of the Gilead Comprehensive Planning Committee will be held on Tuesday, July 15, in the Town Hall on Depot Street. The meeting will start at 7 p.m. and is open to the public. Contact Jack Pucak at 836-2729 for additional information.

Upton

by Laurie Brown

During the Selectmen's 2-1/2 hour meeting, the warrants were accepted as read. Mike Chapman was appointed and sworn in as an alternate on the Planning Board. Bob Brown was appointed as building inspector, providing MMA ascertains no conflict of interest, and the board unanimously voted to purchase an electric heater for the Town Office.

Jim has received several inquiries from taxpayers concerning the assessment of their land. Selectmen will re-evaluate the lots in question. Selectmen have requested Jim advertise in newspapers that they're accepting bids to repair the schoolhouse, as they're required to do. Norm suggested they hire himself and Kenny to do the roof and the porch repairs.

Speaking of the schoolhouse, I am one of several folks who've spent hours at the courthouse in South Paris and at the Maine State Archives in Augusta in unsuccessful attempts to find out who actually owns the land on which it sits. Ginny Williamson has solved the question quite satisfactorily for town folks. In the 1963 Town Report, the issue was brought up and resolved. Recorded in Book 619, Page 466 at the courthouse, is a Superior Court Decree Quitting Title which determines that the town of Upton owns all of the land surrounding the building that it has used since the school was built.

Wendy, Jillian, and D.J. from Northwood, N.H., spent five days visiting Bob and Deb Thompson at their camp on Back Street.

Cameron's camp and lawn with campers and tents were filled over the weekend with family and friends.

On Mill Hill, The Brooks had a family reunion. There were many members of the Brennan family in town. I hadn't seen some of them for years.

Upton was bustling! The merchants had a well-attended yard sale at the Grange Hall.

There have been a lot of library visitors on Wednesdays from 2 to 6 p.m., and the Children's Story Hour on Wednesdays from 1 to 2 p.m. is proving quite successful for me and the kids. On Sundays from 2 to 4 p.m., it's a little quieter.

Dean and Pam Merchant visited Jr (Archer) Poor in Andover. Jr showed them a picture of the amazing Indian stone effigy, apparently found by Buster Williamson on Umbagog, and a perfect Paleo Indian point found in Rumford Center. Pam was entranced by Jr's multi-colored glass arrowheads knapped from glass.

Dean, a pre-historian, is busy collecting Indian stories from this region. He has found a 12,000-year-old Paleo end scraper and two channel flakes in his sifter. He welcomes information concerning Paleo Indian artifacts found along the Dead Cambridge. If you want to swap findings and stories, stop by the Grange Hall. Dean wants to meet Dick Doyle, from Portland, because he's heard that Dick's the best flint knapper there is. That's funny (to me) because Dick's a close friend of mine and an even closer friend with my sister Melanie.

Joe and Penny Bernier had several guests at their July 4th celebration.

On July 10, Jessica Simpson was born in 1980, Arthur Ashe in 1943, and David Brinkley in 1920.

Abe Lincoln once said: "Common looking people are the best in the world; that is the reason the Lord makes so many of them."

Selah.

Newry

by Sylvia Harrington

The Newry Fire Department is hosting a Bean Hole Baked Bean Supper from 4 to 6 p.m. on July 19 at the Bear River Grange Hall. Watch next week's paper for further information.

Many cedar waxwings are here eating berries from a tree out front. Many of the berries hit the ground and the birds fly right down to scoop them up. It is an especially pretty bird that has been arriving for many years.

Recently I celebrated my birthday with my son. He cooked a great lunch and I brought the ice cream. I must say that Mark is a much better cook than I am. It has been many years since I have cooked for anyone but myself and a few friends who visit a couple times a year.

This past week Eric and Vicki Lowell spent a few days with their grandparents, Sandee and Leon Dunn. It is sort of nice with school out for a couple of months that these visits can take place. On my way home on the 5th, I saw Vicki having a riding lesson. She looked very nice in her riding gear. Made me wonder if she was riding this weekend in an event or parade.

I'd have to say we had the nicest 4th of July weekend in quite a few years with lots of lovely sunshine.

On my way in to Bethel on the 5th I counted at least 10 cars parked at the Grafton Notch Loop Trail. I'd like to make that climb some day. Still my favorite special climb is Table Rock with interesting views and is in Grafton Notch across from the Old Mt. Speck parking lot.

Betsy and Dick Clark were leaving the BRTF as I was filling the gas tank. I only stopped briefly to get a TV Guide.

I talked with Sam Eames and his wife last weekend. His mother, Kaye, is getting over a cold so decided to stay home during the 4th weekend.

The class I graduated with from Stephens High in Rumford many years ago, met at my house on the 7th. We are having our 58th luncheon reunion at Rooster's Roadhouse in Bethel on July 26. We were finalizing the plans for that date. A good number of classmates have signed up. It's only three weeks away.

Drivers do save gas when traveling about 50 mph. This saves money, cuts consumption, and an excellent affect is that it reduces the pollutants going into the atmosphere.

Hanover

by Clem Worcester
The Hanover Select Board will meet Wednesday, July 16, at 4 p.m. This is a deviation from their usual schedule of Tuesdays at 6 p.m. and was changed due to scheduling difficulties.

The Comprehensive Plan Committee free cookout will be Wednesday, July 16, starting at 6 p.m. The event at the Hanover Town Office is open to all Hanover taxpayers, residents (including seasonal residents) and interested individuals. There is a hook as you might guess. The Comprehensive Plan Committee is seeking ideas and views on two questions that will help to shape the town's future. No. 1: What and where are the things that you like about Hanover that the town should retain over the next 10 to 20 years? No. 2: Over the next 10 to 20 years, what are the most important issues to plan for the town's future? The CPC hopes there will be a good turnout next Wednesday to help them with their work for the revised Comprehensive Plan.

Several Hanover girls are quite bored with summer vacation and they are trying to do something about it. Fourteen-year-old Nicole Pulia and her 12-year-old sister Megan have gone into business. They are willing to wash or walk dogs and wash cars. If you could use these services call Nicole at 869-9465.

The Fourth of July holiday passed pretty much uneventfully with a few minor exceptions. Most cottages and homes at Howard Pond had folks staying there doing a lot of swimming and boating. By Sunday folks had just about worn out the water in the pond and were packing up and heading home. Surely they will return again.

The 2007 tax year came to an end on June 30. Many folks came in to pay their taxes in the last few days of June. Afterward there were less overdue taxes remaining than other years. Those who have yet to pay their taxes should do it soon to avoid additional charges apply.

Mason

by Richard Grover

Mona and I had a busy 4th of July, attending a breakfast brunch at a friend's camp on Ellis Pond in the village of Roxbury Pond and a picnic at Craig and Jane Ryerson's home in Bethel. Our good friends Ed Roach and his son Don and daughters Barbara Ann and Sue host a large family gathering at their Ellis Pond camp every 4th of July, which includes an impromptu 4th of July parade down the beach. They lead the parade with an ATV pulling a garden trailer fitted with an amplifier, microphone and speakers through which they broadcast patriotic songs, including the National Anthem.

This year they invited us to come up and join them for a 10 a.m. breakfast, which we did. While there, we got acquainted with many of their family members, which included one of Ed's grandson's family, which includes seven young children, ranging in age from a small infant to about 10 or 11 years old. The interesting part is that the four youngest are all adopted and are from disadvantaged families, mostly from Caribbean islands. The youngest was born prematurely and weighed less than two pounds at birth. The second youngest is a girl toddler who still breathes 100-percent oxygen because she too was born prematurely, and her lungs are still not well enough developed to function on ambient air. The next two are both boys and are about 4 and 5 years old. The family lives on a farm in Farmington, Maine, and home school the children. Although eligible for state assistance, the only help they accept is health insurance for the children to help them with their many medical problems. It is heartwarming to see a young couple willing to work and give love and support to so many children who would otherwise require foster homes or some kind of state provided subsistence. We were sorry to have to leave before their planned 1 p.m. parade, in order to make it to the Ryerson picnic by 2 p.m.

The Ryersons had planned to have their picnic at their campsite at Dummer's Beach on Web Lake, but their site was flooded out on Wednesday afternoon by a thunderstorm-generated flash flood. A small brook that runs through the campground became a raging torrent flowing through campsites and even washed much of the sand away from the beach! The alternate plan worked out well, as they stretched a couple tarps between their camper and Craig's taxidermy shop to provide shade for the picnic tables. It was a thoroughly enjoyable feast, with burgers, hotdogs, steak, lobster and steamed clams, supplemented by numerous salads and strawberry shortcake, with the berries picked fresh from our very own row of big beautiful berries. I think we all gained a couple pounds on that one.

Craig had also been entertaining a couple of his old Army buddies who came up from Pennsylvania and Virginia for a few days of fishing and storytelling. Craig and George then told of George's misfortune while handling a small-medium-size bass he caught on a spinner with a treble hook. It seems that when George started to remove the hook from the bass, the bass gave a flop and one prong of the treble hook lodged in George's finger, and he couldn't get it out. Craig took his pliers and attempted to back the hook out of the finger, but as he twisted the hook, the pain brought George up on his tiptoes!

George decided he'd take his chances at the ER. There, a lady medic employed a unique technique to remove the hook. Instead of cutting the barbed end off the hook, she attached a string to the bent end of the hook, as close as possible to the barb. Then, with one hand she bent the eye end of the hook down against George's skin, and with her other hand she pulled the string. Slick as a whistle, George said that hook came out of his finger, leaving a smaller hole than when it went in, if that's possible, and with no additional pain!

Andover

by Melinda Averill

Vacation Bible School starts next week, July 14, through 18 at the Calvary Bible Church. Ages three years through sixth grade are welcome from 9 to 11:30 a.m. Come join the team for the 2008 VBS Olympics "more than gold, honoring God."

Congratulations to the following Andover students for achieving honor roll at Mount Valley for the second semester: 12th grade, Nicholas Anastasio, and 8th grade, Izaak Mills.

Speedy recovery and good health wishes to Honey Crumlin who had surgery recently. Honey also had the misfortune of having her son's camp burn last week. Thank goodness nobody was inside when that happened.

Last Thursday a carload of us went berrying over to Wayne, Maine. The berries were delicious and big. It took us probably 30 minutes to pick. Going were Peg Madigan and granddaughter Joslyn, Susan Mills and Katie, Susan Merrow, Kelsey Averill and myself. On the way home we stopped in at Twin Rivers Campground and surprised a few Andover campers! Then we of course had to stop for ice cream before leaving Livermore. (When Peggy,

Annual Drinking Water Quality Report for 2007 BETHEL WATER DISTRICT

Bethel, ME
PWSID ME0090160

We're pleased to present to you our Annual Drinking Water Quality Report, also known as the Consumer Confidence Report. This report, a requirement of the 1996 amendments to the Safe Drinking Water Act, is designed to inform you about the quality of water and services we deliver to you every day. Our constant goal is to provide you with a safe and dependable supply of drinking water. We want you to understand the efforts we make to continually improve the water treatment process and protect our water resources. We are committed to ensuring the quality of your water.

WATER SOURCE

Due to exceptional water quality our source, we have a waiver to filtration. We screen the water twice before treating it with chlorine to protect from possible bacterial contaminants and add fluoride to promote dental health. It is then gravity fed to our 1,313 customers through 525 service connections. We own 2,300 acres surrounding the source, we have developed and implemented a Watershed Control which is designed to prevent contamination of our source. There are also three wells on the North Road used due to the loss of Chapman Brook in July 07.

SOURCE WATER ASSESSMENT

The Maine Drinking Water Program (DWP) has evaluated all public water supplies as part of the Source Water Assessment Program (SWAP). The assessments included geology, hydrology, land uses, water testing information, and the extent of land ownership or protection by local ordinance to see how likely our drinking water source is to be contaminated by human activities in the future. Assessment results are available at public water suppliers, town offices, and the DWP. For more information about the SWAP, please contact the DWP at telephone 207-287-2070.

If you have any questions about this report or concerning your water system, please contact Lucien Roberge, Superintendent, or Donald Katin, Assistant Superintendent, at telephone number 207-824-2342 or mailing address PO Box 104, Bethel, ME 04217. If you want to learn more, please attend any of our regularly scheduled meetings. They are held on the third Tuesday of every month at 4 p.m. at the District Office, 9 Philbrook St.

WATER QUALITY

Bethel Water District routinely monitors for contaminants in your drinking water according to Federal and State laws. The following table shows any detection resulting from our monitoring for the period of January 1st to December 31st, 2007.

In 2005, due to efforts to protect the water supply, we applied for and were granted a three-year waiver for synthetic organics (Phase I/IV) testing. This is an exemption from the testing/monitoring requirements for pesticides, herbicides, fungicides and other industrial chemicals; the state of Maine Drinking Water Program grants a waiver only upon a finding that "it will not result in an unreasonable risk to health."

The sources of drinking water include rivers, lakes, ponds and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and radioactive material and can pick up substances resulting from human or animal activity. All sources of drinking water are subject to potential contamination by substances that are naturally occurring or man made. Contaminants that may be present in source water include:

Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations, and wildlife.

Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, can be naturally occurring or result from urban storm water runoff, industrial or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming.

Pesticides and herbicides may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban storm water runoff, and residential uses. Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban storm water runoff, and septic systems.

Radioactive contaminants can be naturally-occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) prescribes regulations which limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water which must provide the same protection for public health. The table below lists all of the drinking water contaminants that were detected through our water quality monitoring and testing. The presence of contaminants in the water does not necessarily indicate that the water poses a health risk.

Maximum Level (AL).	The concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow to achieve Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL).
Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL).	In the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLG as feasible using the best available treatment technology.
Maximum Contaminant Level Goal (MCLG).	The highest level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.
Maximum Residual Disinfection Level (MRDL).	The highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that disinfectants are necessary for the control of microbial contamination.
Maximum Residual Disinfection Level Goal (MRDLG).	The level of drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contamination.

Celebrating birthdays this week are Darren Jodrey on the 14th, and Lindsey Milligan, Tamika Cole, Taylor Merrill and Matthew Hall all on the 16th.

There will be a clean-up day at the Library on Friday, July 18 starting at 9:30 a.m. Please feel free to join in to help keep the grounds maintained of our beautiful library building. Volunteers please bring rakes, brush clippers or other small tools. For more information contact Trudy at 392-3157.

Our own local Hutchinson Farm will be setting up a farm stand in the village Thursdays and Fridays from around 3 to 7 p.m. and Saturday from 8 a.m. to noon through the growing season. In addition to fresh garden veggies, Tammy will have homemade bread, eggs, butter and milk available.

Have a nice weekend, enjoy the heat!

ents, grandparents, aunts and uncles enjoyed the day. Lunch was served including two cakes, "My Pony" and "Spiderman" with ice cream. Their many presents were excitedly opened for all to admire. We all viewed their newly renovated house, including a new kitchen, a master bedroom with a second bathroom.

The Utah family took good care of Muffin while I was at Ferry Beach. She welcomed them warmly.

East Andover

Get well cards can be sent to Bobby Hall who is at Maine Medical in Portland recovering from an operation.

Donna and Steve Hall are now back in their summer home in East Andover. Welcome back!

I want to congratulate Andrew Farrington who has just finished his third year at U of Maine-Orono. He is majoring in electrical engineering technology, and has made the dean's list again for the third straight year, that's six, count 'em, semesters in a row. Wow!

Elections to fill the two open selectmen's positions will be held on Thursday, July 17, from 4 until 8 p.m. at the Town Hall. The candidates for the eight-month term are Trudy Akers, Brenda Stickney and Daniel Wells. The candidates for the 20-month term are Fred Detheridge, Donna Libby, and Mark Thurston. Absentee ballots are available at the Town Office during regular office hours.

The Calvary Bible Church will be holding Vacation Bible School starting on July 14. The program will go on for the whole week.

A Summer Reading Program will start at the Andover Library on Saturday, July 12. There are sign-up sheets at the library. It should be a lot of fun and very "rewarding."

Speaking of the library, all the rumors that you may have heard about me wanting to replace Janet as the librarian are false. While I enjoy helping out on occasion, I do not want the responsibility, nor could I ever do the job as well as Janet does it.

I want to tell Honey Cronin that my thoughts and prayers are with her. Honey has had a really rough time of it lately, and I hope that things will turn around for her soon.

My neighbors, Wanda and Pete Coolidge, have done an excellent job getting Pete's Hardware up and running. You should check it out. It's on Nevel Road, just follow the sign.

I want to thank Ken and Alice Dixon for inviting me to their Fourth of July celebration. I had a very nice time and I know that everybody else did.

Have a happy week. See 'ya.

Bryant Pond

The Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War 1861-1865 held their Department Convention in Waterville on June 27. Department president Helvi Cary opened the meeting. Before the meeting, a granddaughters' breakfast was held. During the meeting a new member, Vicky Myers, was initiated. She is a member of Judith Grover Tent 17 of Bryant Pond. It is always nice to have new members. There were nine members from Judith Grover Tent 17 that attended. A corsage and gifts were presented to the Department president. A memorial service was held for Post Department President Joyce Gouin and the National president. Next year in June the Department convention will again be held in Waterville on either Friday or Saturday.

In Augusta, the National CVW Convention will be held in Portland, Maine.

Judith Grover Tent 17 will hold a meeting at the Grange Hall on Monday, July 14 at 7 p.m.

Services at the Baptist Church are Sunday school at 9:45 a.m., morning worship at 10:30 a.m., evening service at 6 p.m. Wednesday evening at 6:30 is prayer meeting and Friday evening at 6:30 is youth group. Looking ahead — July 13 at 5 p.m. is the quarterly business meeting; Aug. 9 is the church picnic at Arlene MacKillop's field. More about this later. Daily Vacation Bible School was held June 30 to July 3 with 35 or more children attending.

The Woodstock-Greenwood Senior Citizens met on Thursday, July 3, at the Greenwood Town Hall, with a delicious dinner put on by the Firemen's Auxiliary. Twenty-two members attended, one new member joined. Rodney Abbott read some poems that were much enjoyed. A silent auction was held. Tickets will be sold on a cord of wood, which was donated to the Seniors, and next meeting is a picnic at the home of Joan and Gordon Morgan. This is potluck, so please bring a dish (with something in it) to share.

Historical Society

Alice Hoyt and Marybeth Hoover watched the museum on Saturday, June 26. Two people were in. The museum has an art gallery, a fine collection of antiques, a hall full of Woodstock memorabilia, and a research library, also a small gift shop and a meeting place. Society members enjoy showing you around or letting you browse for yourself. There are treasures all around, so you may want to visit more than once. Feel free. They have old tools and farm implements, household goods and old toys. A few signs appear around, some are The Little Jap tea room and the Rainbow Tea Room, a couple of eating places. A few old maps, but with limited place to put them, not too many. A special exhibit of Sathbey's Auction catalogues is now featured in the museum. There are a number of books and antiques and in the research library are the works of 19th Century New England writers as well.

What a beautiful sunny, warm week. It pushed the rain aside and welcomed true summer. We all thought the grass would never green and now we cannot keep up with the weeding and mowing. Peonies and lilies and irises have graced our gardens but now are gone.

At the West Summer Universalist Church on Sunday July 13, Shirley Miller will lead the service at 11 a.m. It will be followed by a delicious coffee hour. All are welcome.

Beryl Bonney returned home after a week at her camp on Round Pond entertaining Donna Melville and Dorene and Raymond Merrill. They had a good week with only a few thundershowers.

On Sunday I drove Florence McLaughlin and Mel Young to Auburn where we attended the 4th Birthday Party for Sophia and Western Hartley, children of Kelly and Cameron Hartley. For entertainment there were pony rides for all, which thrilled the many cousins present. Great-grandpar-

Albany

by Sheila Dyke

Greetings and hello from Albany Township. My — what lovely weather we have been having these past few days. The sunshine has been wonderful, especially over the July 4th weekend. A bit hot, but, still, lovely. Family and friends celebrated with Bud Bowden his 90th birthday at the Locke Mills Region Hall Saturday, July 5. We are sorry we were unable to attend; however, we hear that everyone had a wonderful time. Many of Bud's family stayed at his place and David made some new friends and we got to see some friends as well. Happy Birthday, Bud! You are a wonderful neighbor and friend.

The Barton's Pick Your Own Strawberry Fields are open. The hours are 8 to 12 a.m. and 5 to 8 p.m. (if I recall correctly). Dana and David picked some over this past weekend and I've got to tell you, they are the sweetest strawberries ever. Needless to say, they're gone — either in jars as jam, in the fridge as a pie and cake, or wonderful memories.

Carleton and Pam Rugg have been back from Florida for a while, but, I forgot to say "Howdy!"

The Mollycodd Day festivities are Saturday, July 19 in Bethel this year. So, be prepared!

Best wishes for a happy and safe week. God Bless and Keep.

Waterford

It is again hot and humid, but they say the ozone won't be as bad today (Tuesday). We shall see. I have been benched these last few days by the ozone. It wreaks havoc on my asthma.

This weekend I witnessed some of our woodpeckers eating, or should I say drinking, out of the hummingbird feeder. Perhaps it is a diabetic woodpecker as it was drinking pure sugar water. It was fascinating to see it hold on with its claws as it pecked its beak into the little holes in the feeder to drink that sugar water.

Although this isn't a huge week, Saturday is the Norway Art Festival. That means that Saturday afternoon is Poets on the Porch. Come out one and all and view the paintings, eat of the varied foods, listen to the area's talented musicians and best of all, enjoy Poets on the Porch in the field at the Norway Library.

David has called himself the "Master of Disaster," but I think not. He manages to injure himself regularly, but they are minor cuts and bruises and not breaks and crashes. All in all, he is in good shape and manages his chores well; even going out early to water the garden if it hasn't rained.

In case others have had problems and are looking, animal control in Waterford is through the Waterford Town Office (583-4403 between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.). After that call the Sheriff's Office at 743-9554. Ask for Larabee. That is according to the Waterford website.

Meetings this week, according to the website are: Selectmen's meeting, Monday, July 14; Transfer Station, July 15; Planning Board, July 16; Trail Riders, July 17. There were no times listed but most start at 6:30 p.m. Any questions, call the Town Office at 583-4403.

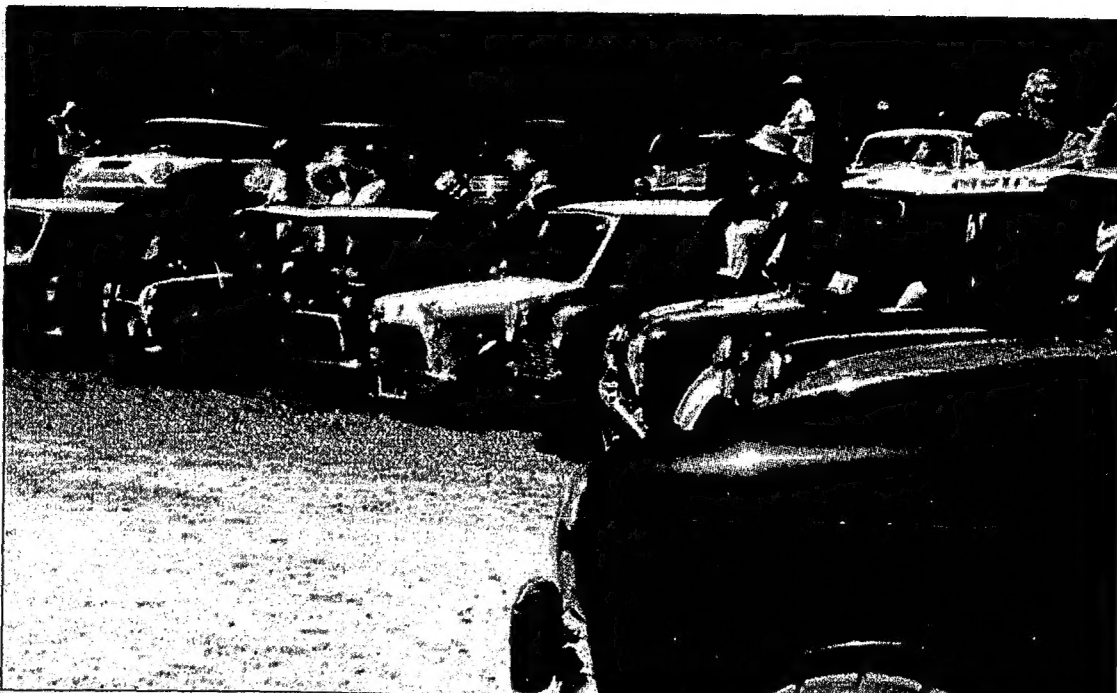

Waterford World's Fair begins July 18 at the Fair Grounds across from Melby's. Fun for all ages! It continues until the 20th.

That is all for this week. Anything you want to appear here call Rockie at 743-0583. Have a great week.

NTL Institute

NTL Institute launches its 2008 Bethel Summer Season starting July 14. NTL Institute plans to run up to 12 programs ranging from four to seven days in the local Bethel area. The NTL programs are scheduled to be held at the Gehring House and NTL Founder's House, and the Bethel Inn. Together The Bethel Inn and Gould Academy will provide conference, food and beverage services to an expected 130 participants. The NTL Institute Bethel Summer Season ends Aug. 8.

"We are excited to be back in Bethel this summer for what we expect to be a series of programs offering our customers the best in learning and the best of Bethel," states Christi A. Olson, Ph.D., NTL's new president and CEO. "Bethel is an important place for us and we enjoy being a good partner with the Bethel community." NTL Institute is also a proud sponsor of the Mollycodd Race.

NTL staff includes Dale Hill, NTL member and onsite supervisor. Dale will be onsite during the entire summer series. On behalf of NTL, we thank Nancy Davis, director of The Lewin Center, a partner with NTL Institute, for her support in getting ready for the summer series, and to Christine Greenleaf, who will be our onsite coordinator. Dale and Christine, along with the NTL member trainers, will be coordinating the Sunrise Seminars. Check in with Christine for dates and location.

NTL's president and CEO, Christi A. Olson, is planning an Open House on Saturday, July 19 for the Bethel community to meet NTL members and staff. Stay tuned for more details.

About NTL Institute

NTL Institute, headquartered in Alexandria Va., was founded in 1947. NTL Institute offers programs in organization development, diversity and inclusion, appreciative inquiry and leadership using experiential learning as its core technology. The organization, which also has a facility in Bethel, is a not-for-profit educational community of members and staff whose mission is to strengthen relationships and organizations by fostering self-awareness and interpersonal, group and system effectiveness. The NTL Institute learning experience is a contemporary curriculum of programs that reflects the most current business thinking to guide leaders of organizations toward discovering imaginative approaches to difficult business problems and complex issues in the workplace.

NTL Institute has over 350 active members who are among the founders, leaders and practitioners in the field of applied behavioral sciences. NTL Institute publishes the Journal of Applied Behavioral Sciences (JABS), a leading academic journal in the field, and publications featuring group and organization-based applications by NTL members.

Oxford County Democrats

The Fourth of July weekend was spectacular for the Oxford County Democrats with three parades, and a variety of community events.

Over 60 volunteers participated in the parades in Otisfield, Hiram and Waterford, with decorated vehicles, marchers carrying signs, and even an Obama stilt walker in Waterford.

Candidates participating in Waterford included Paul Dumas for Judge of Probate, Bruce Rood for Register of Probate, Charleen Chase for County Commissioner, and Russ Newcomb for House District 95. Helen Rankin for House District 97 was the candidate in her hometown of Hiram, and Jim Bradley for House District 100 and Lisa Villa for Senate District 13 led an enthusiastic band of more than 30 volunteers in Otisfield.

In addition, candidates covered several events in Franklin and Cumberland counties with Senator Bruce Bryant participating in the Jay parade on Thursday and Lisa Villa marching in the Bridgton and Naples parades on Friday afternoon. Rep. Tim Carter attended the Rangeley festivities, and volunteered at the Chamber of Commerce booth at the Bethel Art Fair on Saturday.

"It was a great weekend, with perfect weather and a tremendous effort by our candidates and volunteers," commented County Democratic Chair Cathy Newell. "A highlight of the preparation for the July 4 weekend was a sign-decorating session at the Rumford office with a multi-generation group of 11 volunteers including softball players from Dixfield. Their signs were a real addition to the parades."

The four Oxford County Democratic offices are up and running in Rumford, Bethel, Norway and Fryeburg. Volunteer activities are occurring in all locations and the Rumford office at 425 Hancock Street is open most hours during the week. Other offices are open by chance, with a regular schedule to be announced soon. The Norway office at 333 Main Street will be open for the Norway Sidewalk Art festival on July 12. The Bethel office is at 7 Mechanic Street and the Fryeburg office is on Route 302 beside Waterford Tile.

To volunteer, call the Rumford office at 364-7289 or e-mail mbeaudin@mainedems.org. All offices will have a supply

American Life in Poetry

Selection and comments by Ted Kooser, U.S. Poet Laureate 2004-2006

Sometimes I think that people are at their happiest when they're engaged in activities close to the work of the earliest humans: telling stories around a fire, taking care of children, hunting, making clothes. Here an Iowan, Ann Struthers, speaks of one of those original tasks, digging in the dirt.

Planting the Sand Cherry

Today I planted the sand cherry with red leaves—and hope that I can go on digging in this yard, pruning the grape vine, twisting the silver lace on its trellis, the one that bloomed just before the frost flowered over all the garden.
Next spring I will plant more zinnias, marigolds, straw flowers, pearly everlasting, and bleeding heart.
I plant that for you, old love, old friend, and lilacs for remembering. The lily-of-the-valley with cream-colored bells, bent over slightly, bowing to the inevitable, flowers for a few days, a week.
Now its broad blade leaves are streaked with brown and the stem dried to a pale hair.
In place of the silent bells, red berries like rose hips blaze close to the ground.
It is important for me to be down on my knees,
my fingers sifting the black earth,
making those things grow which will grow.
Sometimes I save a weed if its leaves are spread fern-like, hand-like,
or if it grows with a certain impertinence.
I let the goldenrod stay and the wild asters.
I save the violets in spring. People who kill violets will do anything.

THE BEAUTIFUL WAY TO INSULATE.

Insulation is essential to a home owner's pleasure in owning a home.
It is a matter of saving money, it is a matter of keeping the house cool in summer and warm in winter.

Insulation is the beautiful way to insulate.

BEFORE BUYING A HOME!

Where do you start when you are ready to buy a home? Before you begin looking for a home, you have to make some decisions. You need to decide what is important to you when purchasing your home. Before starting out on your home search it is a good idea to sit down and develop a list of what is important and what would you like in your new home. Your list could include schools, neighborhood, amenities, number of bedrooms, number of baths, a basement, a separate dining room, 2-story family room or foyer, one level ranch plan, master bedroom on the main level, special financing, seller willing to cover closing costs and the list goes on and on.

An experienced buyer real estate agent can help you through the process. There is no such thing as a perfect house, therefore once you have developed your list you should begin to prioritize it. You can prioritize into, "must have", "should have" and "would be nice to have". By having a clear understanding what you want in your new home, and the priority of those items, you will be in a much better position to decide whether you want to put an offer on a house you see and like. It is also a good idea to consider whether you want to purchase a new or pre-owned home.

Obituaries

BARBARA P. MEISNER

Barbara Pratt Meisner, 82, of Tavares, Fla., died Friday, July 4, 2008.

She was born on Feb. 8, 1925 and raised by her parents, Edward and Hazel Pratt in Andover, Maine.

Barbara moved from Andover to Georgetown, Mass., after marrying, in 1970, her beloved husband, Shirley (Bud) Meisner, and then moved to Tavares, Fla., upon their retirement in 1987.

Mrs. Meisner was predeceased by her husband, George Meisner, the father of her children, Marcia and Marshall; parents, Edward and Hazel Pratt; sister, Minerva Gerace; great-grandchild, Zachary.

She is survived and will be missed by her loving and devoted husband, Shirley (Bud) Meisner of Tavares, Fla.; daughter, Marcia Raymond (Alan) of Fruitland Park, Fla.; son, Marshall Meisner (Vicki), Andover, Maine; stepson, Steven Meisner (Paula) of Exeter, N.H.; sister, Patricia Waters of Simsbury, Conn.; niece, Barbara Craft, N.J., several grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Memorial services will be held in the Andover Congregational Church, Andover, Maine, at a later date. Contributions can be made to the Andover Congregational Church, PO Box, Andover, ME 04216 in her beloved hometown.

Barbara will be missed by her family, her devoted friends in Florida and also Andover.

In our back yard:

Landscape Gardening — An American Passion

Climate change isn't just a global issue; let's think about what it means in our own back yards.

Some of the downsides of climate change for landscape gardeners in Maine include an increase in invasive plant species, the range migration of native species, and changes in precipitation patterns. But we, either as avid gardeners or simply folks who enjoy the flowers, butterflies and birds, can take simple and thoughtful steps to reduce the negative impacts from these changes.

Landscape designs can play an important role in minimizing the threat of invasive species that are crowding out native plants that support our wildlife food chains. We can replace invasives with an array of native alternatives, and the University of Maine Extension Service has identified a number of plant options, available in the publication "Gardening to Conserve Maine's Landscape" at www.umext.maine.edu (search for Bulletin 2500).

For example, we can replace the harmful invasive English ivy with plantain-leaved sedge, marginal woodfern, white woodland aster, Meehan's mint and creeping phlox. Similarly, purple coneflower, gayfeather or shaggy blazing star are better native alternatives to the invasive purple loosestrife. And native alternatives to the invasive Japanese honeysuckle include American wisteria, leatherflower, Carolina jasmine, trumpet honeysuckle, sweetbay magnolia, or purple passionflower.

By incorporating a diversity of native plants into our landscapes with bloom times that overlap, we can help maintain some of the important timing connections between bird and insect pollinators with wildlife habitat and food needs. The National Wildlife Federation's (NWF) "Certified Wildlife Habitat" program (www.nwf.org/backyard/) offers suggestions for turning our gardens into true havens for birds, butterflies, amphibians and other wildlife.

On a larger scale, gardeners can plant native species that form corridors through a community, providing important habitat basics (food, water, cover) for wildlife to raise their young, helping them cope with the effects of climate change. Learn more at www.nwf.org/community/.

In our own backyards, we can combat the negative effects of climate change by giving the lawn mower a deserved rest. By letting little-used lawn areas grow into fields or replacing grassy lawns with native wildflowers, shrubs, and trees, we can increase the natural beauty and provide a refuge for wildlife. As a bonus, mowing less cuts back on emissions that contribute to climate change and saves money on gasoline.

One likely effect of climate change is more erratic precipitation patterns — including droughts and extreme precipitation events — and we can make some changes to keep our gardens green and our landscape healthy. Xeriscaping is a way of minimizing water use through the planting of native, drought-tolerant plants. In addition, by watering plants either early or late in the day, we can ensure that they receive the maximum benefit and we don't waste precious water through evaporation in the midday sun. Planting natural vegetative buffers along stream banks to prevent erosion from heavy rain will also help protect water quality and aquatic habitat.

Climate change may be making headlines around the world, but here at home there are some things we can do to protect the special green places we create in our own backyards.

THANK YOU

Thank you is not enough to express the deep gratitude that I have for the tremendous outpouring of love and caring for Dick, for me and for our family. There are too many to name individually, therefore I will attempt to group the wonderful friends in this community.

Ten days of meals from the West Bethel Union Church family, Auxiliary Unit #81, Pleasant River Campground and numerous individuals with goodies to tempt the palate.

Visits and calls from family and friends, the Tuesday morning coffee group and the Mallard Mart coffee group.

Reg Westleigh, Sonny Bean, Carol Campbell, Roberta Taylor, Dan Whitman and Jeri and Jerry Greenwell for being caregivers a couple of hours each day.

Reg Westleigh for painting the hay rake and Robert Lowell for transporting it to the Church and to a new home in West Bethel.

Dr. William Meck, Althea Chase and the wonderful caregivers from Androscoggin Home Care and Hospice.

Pastor John Williams and Pastor Kevin Bellinger for their encouragement and spiritual guidance.

The Bethel Alliance Church for allowing us to hold the Celebration of Life for Dick in their beautiful sanctuary and the Ladies from both churches for the delicious luncheon.

The members of Mundt-Alen Post 81 and Jackson-Silver Post #68 for the military portion of the service.

To our five children and spouses and grandchildren for all that they did to make those last 6 weeks as comfortable as possible for all of us.

The last 34 days of Dick's life was spent in preparing for the future - his and mine. He knew in his heart that he was "Going Home" and he shared that with everyone that visited. He also made a point of calling old friends, new friends, army buddies, neighbors and family - always ending with "Thank you for being my friend".

And so - I end this with "Thank you for being a friend to the Littlefield family". We have been blessed by your caring.

Nesta Littlefield
